

Cherry Red.

Firstly, apologies for the delay with the tickets, bit of a joke that. We went moaning on about people buying tickets early enough and this time there were no tickets for you to buy. Adverts tickets are available now at £1.50, see. If you came to Judas Priest and wondered why there were no British Lions, it was because they were involved in a road accident on the way to the gig. We didn't find this out until 7.30pm and by that time it was too late to find a stand in band. Thanks to Andy and Don for getting some records together at very short notice. J.P.s road crew were all playing Star Wars tapes or something equally as boring all night.

Those of us who live around here, had a real treat the other week when the Vendettas played the Phoenix Folk Club. The place was packed within half an hour of the doors opening. Russell & Toad of 'Health Warning' did a couple of things, incidentally, 'Health Warning' play there on 30th March. After being bullied A.J. did a guitar solo (EXTRODINAIRE) with Adrian on words (when he could remember them). Of course the Vendettas were superb again. This time they had their 3 school girl back up vocalists 'The Vendetts' helping out on T.V. Girl along with their roadie on lead guitar. I won't go on bout them, because I know they are good and I'm sure you must have realised that by now! If you haven't, well that's your fault.

The Tights have now completed their three track single. The A side is cracked with a double B side of Bad Hearts and It. The record should be released about mid April, it does seem to have taken a time but we are sure you will agree with us, that it's worth the wait when you hear it. The band will be undertaking selective dates soon after its release, some of which will be in London.

Apparently some of our heavies have been involved in a little fracas. Seems they were at this party when a bunch of disco jivers started on them. Well they picked on the wrong ones, cos not only did they beat them up but also smashed the place up into the bargain. And to think we always thought they were such nice people.
