

A MESSAGE ON A BIT OF PAPER!

Right, now the thing is would the Photos single have had all those pre release plays had it been on Cherry Red instead of CBS ?. Anyway I'm sure you'll join us and wish the band good luck in the future.

Our next gig is Motorhead & Saxon on December 5th. Some people seem to think the gig is off, probably due to some music papers cocking up the dates and putting them down for Birmingham on the 5th. The gig is definately on and there are still a few tickets left, but be quick. The final gig this year is Dr. Feelgood and Phil Rainbow on December 22nd. Tickets will be £2 advance & £2.50 on the door. They go on sale at the begining of December. We dont have anything sorted out for the new year yet so you'll have to wait and see.

A couple of weeks ago the Dangerous Girls along with two other bands played at the Bank House, the number of people that turned up was very disapointing. It's always amused me why the vast majority of people wont check out something thats new to them. Quite often your major established bands are so tame and boring that they are not worth bothering to see, That brings me on to the Phoenix club at the Nags. If you have never been to it you bloody well ought to. It's only small, but the club offers a wide variety of music local and national, sometimes even international. See the forth comming gig list below.

Right now on to our label, well, 'Heartbeat' to be precise which is one of the same thing really. We have a single called 'She said go' by a Bristol Band called Private Dicks. In fact some of you might know the lead singer Gavin King who originates from Malvern. Fact is its an excellent single which I'm sure the majority of you here tonight will like. You might even of heard it on da radio on Jimmy Pursey. B.J. Robinson, Kid Jerkin, Peel and Mike Read they have all played it, not that thats any recommendation. No actually Mike Read does a really good show, 8 to 10 week day evenings on Radio 1.

Another recent release on Heartbeat is the Bristol Compilation L.P. 'Avon Calling'. On Cherry Red the follow up album to Business Unusual has just been released entitled 'Labels Unlimited'. This contains 16 tracks ranging from fairly well known names like the Pirahanas, The Shapes, Girls School and obscure names like The Newtown Neurotics, A.K. Process & Crisis. The only other release this year is an album from the Hybrid Kids, you wait till you hear that !!
